Research guide 3

WAR

Introduction

Archives New Zealand holds many records of the armed forces, from the 1840s to the 1970s. Most are held in the Wellington office, in either War or Army Department records.

This guide is organised by period and war, focusing mostly on the Army. Records held for the Royal New Zealand Air Force and the Royal New Zealand Navy are outlined at the end of the guide.

Personnel Files

Archives New Zealand holds individual personnel files from the Anglo-Boer War 1899-1902 [AABK 18805 W5515]. Unfortunately individual records include very little about actual service, but references to records may be found by name in ARCHWAY:

http://archway.archives.govt.nz

Archives New Zealand also holds individual personnel files from the period 1914-1920, including the First World War [AABK 18805]. All files are searchable by name on ARCHWAY, which gives individual file references.

Personnel Files for service after 1920, including the Second World War and later, are mostly held by the New Zealand Defence Force. Contact details are:

Website: www.nzdf.mil.nz/personnel-records/NZDF-archives

Medal information can be obtained through the website:
http://medals.nzdf.mil.nz

Archives New Zealand does hold personnel files for:

- Victoria Cross winners [AD 36/26-29; AIR w2470] (some restrictions)
- Maori (28th) Battalion (World War 2) (See Page 8; Access restrictions apply)

NINETEENTH CENTURY

British Forces 1845-1870

At various times fourteen British infantry regiments and Royal Artillery, Staff & Service Corps served in the wars in New Zealand, 1845-1847 and 1861-1866. They were eligible for the New Zealand Medal (see below). Some soldiers took their discharge in New Zealand. If they received a pension they may appear in Treasury Registers [T 9/1-7].

Archives New Zealand holds microfilm copies of Muster Books and Pay Lists for each of the regiments stationed in New Zealand. A regiment and dates of service are needed to give access to information on a particular person. [WO 12]

There is also a card index recording soldiers who died in the wars of the 1860s:

- Historical War Graves Index Cards [IA 76/9-12]

Royal New Zealand Fencibles

The Fencibles were retired British soldiers who were settled near Auckland. See Research Guide: Migration.

New Zealand War Medals

The New Zealand Medal was awarded to nearly all British troops who served in New Zealand in the 1840s and 1860s. However, it was awarded only to New Zealand colonial troops who, on application, could prove they had come under enemy fire during their service.

Archives New Zealand Wellington holds an alphabetical War Medal Card Index in the Reading Room which gives references to one or more of the following, depending on what force the individual served with:

- Imperial War Medal Rolls/Register (British) [WO 100/18; REPRO 18]
- Register of application for the New Zealand War Medal 1869 (Colonial) [AD 36/2]
- Index to War Medal Register 1869 (Colonial) [AD 36/4; REPRO 1644]
● New Zealand War Medal Register (Colonial) [AD 36/3; REPRO 1660]
● War Medal Application Files (Colonial) [AD 32]

All these may give brief details of a soldier’s service. The colonial records include some Maori who fought for the Crown.

AJHR (Appendices to the Journal of the House of Representatives), include lists of many successful colonial medal applicants, particularly in:
AJHR 1871 G-1 (pp4-8 & 21-22); G-1A (pp1-3 & 5-6)
AJHR 1873-1875 (H-16A, -17, -25 respectively)

New Zealand Cross

● Conditions of award and names of holders of the New Zealand Cross November 1868 to September 1956 [AD 32/5000 (Box 70)]
● New Zealand Cross holders 1863-1870 [AD 36/1] (Limited information.)

The names of New Zealand Cross winners are also included in the Index to War Medals Register. [AD 36/4; REPRO 1644]

New Zealand Forces

Many different New Zealand colonial forces were raised in the nineteenth century, often temporarily, for military, policing and settlement reasons.

Militia 1845-1864

Under the Militia Ordinance 1845, militia units could be raised in New Zealand, for temporary service in times of emergency only, in the locality where the force was raised. The Militia Act 1858 continued these forces, but it also provided for volunteer units, and from the 1860s the Militia were replaced by Volunteer Corps. The Militia Act 1858 continued these forces, and for many corps their only public appearances were in ceremonial parades.

Though inefficient, the Volunteers remained until the Defence Act 1909 formed a Territorial Army 1910-11. Records of the Volunteer forces exist, mostly Rolls of various sorts, such as: Capitation Rolls, Nominal and Casualty Rolls, Acceptance Rolls.

Auckland Office:

● Coromandel Rifle Brigade 1879-1889 [ZAAP 15154/1a] (AK)
● Waikato Militia & Forest Rangers 1866-1870 [AAEE 15167/1a] (AK)
● Pay and Acceptance Lists for Headquarters, staff, 2nd, 3rd & 4th Waikato Regiments and for No.1 & No.2 Companies Forest Rangers 1867. [ZAAN 14147/1a] (AK)

Wellington Office:

In the Reading Room is an alphabetical card index to the volunteer corps. Knowledge of the corps a person served in can lead to Rolls which list corps members’ attendance at training and the pay disbursed.

● Capitation Rolls of Volunteer Corps 1860-1886 [AAYS 8790] ARM 41/1-161)
● Volunteer Corps 1863-1872 [AAEE 8656] AD 23/1-14)
● Band, Cadet & Staff Rolls ?1863-?1912 [AAEE 8655] AD 22/1-25)

Colonial Defence Force 1863-1867

The Colonial Defence Act 1862 authorised the formation of the first Regular Force in New Zealand, and a number of Special Forces, such as the Forest Rangers (see Volunteer Corps), were also raised. Archives New Zealand Wellington holds a copy of:

● ‘Return of Names of members of the Colonial Defence Force 1865’ [Le 1 1865/110; REPRO 76]
● Card index to the above, Wellington Reading Room

The Colonial Defence Force was disbanded on 22 October 1867 and many members transferred to the Armed Constabulary that year (see next page).

Nominal Returns of Killed or Wounded

New Zealand Gazettes 1863-1865 include lists of troops (imperial and colonial) killed or wounded at various engagements in those years.

Other lists of ‘Killed in Action’ and ‘Died of Wounds’ are to be found in:
AJHR 1871 G-1A (p7 – pre 11 July 1868 deaths)
AJHR 1871 G-1 (pp8-10 – post 11 July 1868 deaths)
Armed Constabulary 1867-1886

The Armed Constabulary was a force raised under the Armed Constabulary Act 1867 and its members were in active service mainly 1868-71.

In the 1870s the Armed Constabulary were at the forefront of settlement in ‘frontier’ areas of the North Island, building roads and serving both a military and a police purpose.

The attack on Parihaka in 1881 was the last active service for the Armed Constabulary which was divided into Police and a military Field Force in 1886.

Archives New Zealand in Wellington holds a variety of Armed Constabulary records, though some originals are not available to the public for preservation reasons.

General Records
- Armed Constabulary Description Book
  [P 8/1; MICRO 6429]
  Information given in the Description Book may include: number, swearing-in date, appointment, place of birth, occupation, physical characteristics.

- Reproductions of contemporary indexes to the two sequences of the Armed Constabulary Description Book
  [P 8/2 & 8/4; REPRO 64 & MICRO 6429]

- Register of Appointments 1869-1879 (chronological arrangement)
  [P 8/3]

- Defaulters Sheets [AD 37/15]
  A Card Index to Defaulters Sheets is held in the Wellington Reading Room.

- Record of Conduct Book & Index
  [P 8/93; Index REPRO 64]

  AJHR 1873 H-24A.

- A list of those transferring from the Armed Constabulary to the Police
  AJHR 1897 H-38A & H-38B.

Rolls - Armed Constabulary

There are many Nominal and Muster Rolls, often called Descriptive Returns, usually restricted to a particular time and place. The overall date range of the rolls is 1863-1885, but most belong to 1868-1869 [P 8/5-96]. These records include two general returns:

- Return of Armed Constabulary Officers (no date)
  [P 8/73]

- Descriptive Roll received from the Defence Office on the reorganisation of the (AC) Force 1867-1869
  [P 8/74]

  This roll includes people who served in other police and military forces before 1867. It contains some information not found in the Description Book, including ship and date of arrival in the colony.

Permanent Militia / Permanent Force 1886-1913

A Permanent Militia, operating as a standing army, was established in 1886 to take over the military functions of the Armed Constabulary. In 1909 it was renamed the Permanent Force.

- Registers & Descriptive Rolls of Permanent Force Personnel 1880-1925 (not all indexed) [AD 21/1-6]
- Personnel Files (a few files, for surnames beginning with K & L) [AD 37/20]
- Defaulters Sheets for some members of the permanent force [AD 37/15] can be found through the Card Index of Defaulters, as for Armed Constabulary.

Registers of Army Commissions 1862-1914

In the Wellington Reading Room is a Card Index of those who held Army Commissions up to 1911, and these cards give references to entries in various lists and register books [AD 20/1-27], including:

- Register of Commissions, Permanent Force, etc 1900-1911 [AD 20/13]
- Registers of Commissions c1900-1921
  [AD 20/14-19]

Military Settlers 1863-1872

Waikato Military Settlers

See also ‘Waikato Immigration Scheme’ in Research Guide Migration page 3.

Four regiments of Waikato Militia military settlers were raised to help keep order in the Waikato and Bay of Plenty after the 1860s wars. Many men were recruited in Australia. Their service entitled them to land grants but much of the land surveyed was unsuitable for farming and was deserted or bought up by speculators.

Military Land Claims

Records of Military Land Claims from this period can be found in the archives of the Lands Department, later the Lands & Survey Department [LS]. Commissions investigated military land claims between 1882 and 1910. A good starting point is a volume of printed reports held in the Register Room, Wellington:

- Naval, Military and Volunteer Land Claims
  [LS 69/50]; Index [LS 69/51]

Another possible approach is through the Indexes and Registers of the Lands (and Survey) Department, held in the Register Room, Wellington.
Anglo-Boer War 1899-1902

The South African or Anglo-Boer War was the first overseas war in which New Zealand was involved. As an imperial war it was supported by considerable patriotic enthusiasm and local Volunteer Corps numbers reached a peak of 17,000.

New Zealand sent 6337 ‘mounted rifles’ in ten contingents to South Africa, with about 8000 horses. Proportionately New Zealand sent more troops than any other colony, but the units did not operate as a national force.

Erratic and incomplete records of this force are held at Archives New Zealand in Wellington. The best lists were published in the AJHR:

- Nominal Rolls  AJHR 1900-1902 H-6
  Organised by contingent and rank, alphabetically within each rank. A card index to the rolls is held in the Reading Room.
- Casualty Rolls, published in AJHR 1900-1902 H-6

For Military Service personnel records see page 1.

Other records are held in Army and War Department archives:

Subject files (all files unindexed, but individuals named or listed):
- Nominal Roll, South African soldiers 1923-1947 (some part lists only) [AD 34 8000 (Box 1)]
- Medals and clasps (3 files) [AD 34 8001 (Box 1)]

- Commandant’s Office, Personnel files for volunteers c1903-1907 (592 total) [AD 61/1-9]

First World War

1914-1918

Archives New Zealand holds a great variety of records of the service of New Zealand forces in the First World War. Most of these are Army records. For Military Service personnel records see page 1.

Background to the First World War

In 1910-1911 New Zealand organised a Territorial Force of some 30,000 men, with permanent staff and an expanded General Headquarters. New weapons and improved training meant that when war broke out on 4 August 1914, New Zealand was able to offer Britain an expeditionary force immediately.

There were enough volunteers to fill the numbers required for the force and its reinforcements until 1916. News of Gallipoli and of the trenches in Belgium and France showed that the war was no longer a ‘glorious adventure’. Conscription was introduced in 1916 to maintain force numbers.

In the First World War, just over 100,000 troops left New Zealand for service overseas in Samoa, Gallipoli, Sinai-Palestine, Belgium and France. Of those serving overseas, more than 16,000 lost their lives and over 41,000 were wounded, a very high casualty rate.

Casualty Rolls

Archives New Zealand holds various records of casualties in the First World War. Microfilm copies should be used where available.

- Casualty Forms – Active Service c1915-1919
  (Similar to forms in personnel records but often with extra information about death and burial. Should include every soldier killed overseas) [AABK 519]
- 1st NZ Expeditionary Force Roll of Honour 1914-1918 – official published roll of casualties [AD 25/14; MICRO 3503]
- Active-Service Casualty rolls compiled during the war [AD 25/10, 11a, 12, 13; MICRO 3503, 3535, 3537, 3539]
- Register of soldiers treated at Wellington Hospital 1916-1919 [ABRR 6910]
- Index to casualties 1914-1918 [AD 25/11; MICRO 3539]
- Other rolls which include casualty information [MICRO 3505, 3507]
- Registers of Casualties 1915-1920 [WA 234/6-19]
- Register of soldiers treated at Wellington Hospital 1916-1919 [ABRR 6910]
  Access to individual entries is open 20 years from death. Otherwise permission to access entries is needed from Capital & Coast Health, Wellington.
Decorations and Awards
Most records relate to the more notable decorations and awards of the First World War, such as the Victoria Cross, George Cross, Military Medal, Distinguished Service Order, and decorations awarded by the French government to members of the NZ Expeditionary Force. See also ‘Photographs’ page 6.
- Victoria Cross (VC) and George Cross (GC) holders, personnel files, First and Second World Wars. Access restricted for 50 years from death. [AD 36/26-29]
- Index to awards of the Military Medal (MM) (2 copies) [AD 36/22 & 23]
- Index to awards of the Distinguished Service Order (DSO) [AD 36/24]
- Honours and Awards, files organised largely by date. Individual pages may include action/citation for specific men and awards. [WA 22 5/1-19]
- Merchant Navy War Medal Card Index A-K & L-Z [ABPL 7461/4-5]

Maori (Pioneer) Battalion
Records held for the Pioneer or Maori Battalion in the First World War include:
- NZ Maori Contingent Numerical Roll [WA 97 3/1]
- Registration Roll for Maori Contingent [WA 97 3/16]
- Nominal Roll [WA 97 3/17]
- Embarkation Rolls of Maori Contingent [MA 1 19/1/473]
- Unit Diaries [WA 97/1]
- Routine Orders [WA 97/2]
- Unit Records [WA 97/3]
- Maori Contingents and Reinforcements 1914-1918 [MA 52/10h]
Further records of the Maori (Pioneer) Battalion may be found under Maori Affairs and Army Departments.

Maps
Maps can be useful in tracing the movements of an individual or unit, perhaps used in combination with other material, such as Unit Diaries. Archives New Zealand holds a variety of maps of areas of conflict.
- Main battle areas: Gallipoli area, Middle East, France & Belgium [WA 220]
- Army Department WWI Maps & Plans (49 in total) [AAAL W3716]
- General Maps & Lantern Slides, including Gallipoli [AD 1/136]
- Major Richardson Papers include Maps of First World War [WA 250/41]
- Messines Maps 1917 [WA 10/2]

Nominal Embarkation Rolls 1st NZ Expeditionary Force 1914-1919
Army Department Embarkation Rolls for the First New Zealand Expeditionary Force (1 NZEF) are arranged by Unit, listing personnel by rank and only then alphabetically. They are held on Microfilm and in Army and War Department records.
- 1 NZEF October 1914 - June 1916 [AD 24/1; MICRO 3541]
- 1 NZEF July 1916 - May 1919 [AD 24/2; MICRO 3543]
- 1 NZEF Main Body & reinforcements, 1-8, January-December 1915 [AD 24/3; MICRO 3541]
- 1 NZEF Rifle Brigade & reinforcements, 9-16, February-October 1916 [AD 24/4; MICRO 3545]
- 1 NZEF 20th reinforcement, February 1917 [AD 24/5; MICRO 3545]
- 1 NZEF alphabetical roll of embarkations, August 1914-December 1915 [AD 24/7; MICRO 3545]
- 1 NZEF embarkations, June 1918-March 1919 [AD 24/8; MICRO 3545]
- Nominal & Alphabetical rolls, 1914-17 [WA 234/1-5]
● Nominal Rolls for some specific sections [AD 1/10]
  ◦ Nominal Roll of New Zealanders serving with the Australian Expeditionary Forces [AD 1 10/234; REPRO 65]
  ◦ List of New Zealand officers in British Imperial Army [AD 1 10/234; REPRO 66]
  ◦ Nurses serving with the 1 NZEF [AD 1/10/231]
  ◦ Nominal and Embarkation Rolls of the Maori or Pioneer Battalion [AD 1/10/230]

New Zealand Army Nursing Service

Nurse Service records are held with all the other Military Service records – see Page 1.

Archives New Zealand also holds a considerable number of papers relating to the New Zealand Army Nursing Service for the period 1910-1924, including the First World War. [AD 64/1-32]

Many of the files are administrative, but some include information on individual nurses. For example, the file ‘Hospital Ships 1915-1919’ [AD 64/4] contains the names of the nurses who travelled and worked on such ships.

● Nominal Roll of Nurses serving with 1 NZEF [AD 1/10/231]

Pensions

Archives New Zealand holds few files relating to individual war pensions, but there are two useful series of index cards to war pension applications:

● War Pensions Card Index [ABNU 6825]
● War Pensions Card Index (Maori) [ABNU 6826]

There are also General Correspondence files which include some names:

● War Pensions for First World War servicemen [SS W1844 W20-313 (with gaps) (Boxes 11-14)] Access restrictions apply.

Photographs

Archives New Zealand holds several First World War photograph collections:

● Gallipoli Campaign, by Sergeant Jack Hilliard. (Permission needed for copies) [WA 254]
● Various photographs of: NZEF Embarkation, wounded (graphic images) and women’s war effort in Britain. [WA 10 6/23]
● Medal Winners, from Dominion Museum exhibition after the war [AALZ 902] Index to names and list of photographs held in Wellington Reading Room.
● Ist NZ Expeditionary Force in France 1917-1918 by official photographer (H11-H634 with gaps) [AALZ 901]
  Most photographs are general or group shots. A numerical list by print number includes brief descriptions of subject matter. (Many of these photographs are also in the F D Thomson papers.)
● Soldiers overseas (H279-H876 with gaps – two bundles, some duplicates of above) [IA 76 12 & 13]

Rehabilitation of Soldiers after the First World War

A number of servicemen suffering from shell-shock, etc, spent time in the Queen Mary Hospital, Hanmer. See Research Guide: Mental Health. Many of the records are restricted access.

The government also made efforts to rehabilitate soldiers into civilian life after the war. A key initiative was the land settlement scheme which aimed to provide cheap farms for those who wanted them, and loans to help finance the purchases. About 9500 soldiers were settled but much of the land was marginal. Considerable hardship and failure resulted.

A variety of Army and Lands & Survey Department records can provide information on the government’s efforts to rehabilitate soldiers after the First World War.

● Army Department correspondence [AD 1]
● Register of Returned Soldiers Holdings 1916-1930 [LS 34/1]
● Land for Settlement [LS 1/21]
● Soldiers Advances, etc [LS 1/26]

Auckland Office:

● Registers of Applications for Financial Assistance – Discharged Soldiers 1919-1923 [BAAZ 4698] (AK)
● Register of Discharged Soldiers’ Leases (A-M) 1921-1922 [BAAZ 1133/1] (AK)
● Land tenure Files: Discharged Soldiers’ Leases [BAIE 1177] (AK)

Reservist Rolls

Lists of Reservists were drawn up by ballot under the Military Service Act of 1916.

● Numerical lists [AD 25/1-8], organised by ballot, are held on microfilm. [MICRO 3547, 3549, 3551, 3553, 3557, 3559, 3561]
● Index (alphabetical) to the Lists of Reservists [AD 25/9; MICRO 3533]

Lists contain no information about place of residence at ballot time. The names of those called up were notified in the New Zealand Gazette November 1916-September 1918, arranged by recruiting district, and with addresses included.

Unit Diaries

The unit diaries of the 1st NZ Expeditionary Force were systematically collected to provide material for later published histories of New Zealand’s efforts in the First World War. Unit Diaries from the war are held in Wellington under Unit name. [WA 1-252]

Each unit has its own series number. A series list for each unit shows what items are held and their time periods. Usually a diary part/file covers a calendar month. Each one needs to be ordered individually.

The unit diaries often include Routine Orders and information on the activities and movements of the unit. Few individuals are mentioned by name.
War Graves

Two card indexes relating to the graves of First World War servicemen are held in Wellington:

- Non-War Graves Card Index of ex-servicemen of the First World War who died after the war.
  [AAAC W3065/1-176]
- War Graves Index for soldiers killed at sea during the First World War.
  [Register Room]

Casualty Forms – Active Service

These should include every soldier killed overseas; details of burial are often given.
[AABK 519]

Information about the war graves of most soldiers who died on active duty during the First World War can be obtained from other institutions:

- Commonwealth Graves Commission website: www.cwgc.org
- Office of Veterans Affairs New Zealand, 11th floor, Sovereign Assurance House, 142 Lambton Quay, Wellington, Freephone 0800 4 VETERAN / 0800 483 8372

SECOND WORLD WAR 1939-45

Archives New Zealand holds a great variety of records of the service of New Zealand forces in the Second World War. Most are Army records, but there are some Air Force and Navy records (see page 12).

- Subject access to Second World War records can be gained through the War History Branch card index in the Reading Room, Wellington.

Background to the Second World War

New Zealand was much less prepared for the Second World War than for the First because defence spending had been much reduced, especially in the Depression of the early 1930s. However, by mid-1940 some 20,000 men had embarked for overseas service with the 2nd New Zealand Expeditionary Force (2 NZEF). They went first to the Middle East and Britain. Later many of them were also to fight in Italy.

New Zealand sent its first troops into the Pacific, to Fiji, in November 1940. After war was declared against Japan in December 1941, many other troops were also sent into the Pacific, though some were later transferred to Italy.

The Home Guard in New Zealand was an important force until the threat from Japan eased in late 1943. A total of about 105,000 men and women from New Zealand served overseas during the Second World War. Of those nearly 7000 died on active service and more than 16,000 were wounded, a much smaller proportion of casualties than in the First World War.

Film

Archives New Zealand has extensive holdings of film relating to the Second World War, much of it on video in Wellington. See ‘Guide to Reference Videocassettes’ or contact the Film Archivist.

Home Guard

The New Zealand Home Guard existed from mid-1940. It became Army proper in August 1941, compulsory and formalised in early 1942, and was wound down in later 1943. At its peak it involved some 123,000 men. Some records, but no full rolls, are held.

- Various files, mostly administration [AD 1 281 & 304]
- Appointment to Commissions, Rolls of Officers, etc [WAII 2 13/-/- (Boxes 34-40)]
  These files are organised by region.
- Civilian Narrative – The New Zealand Home Guard [WAII 21/70a (CN125)]

Two books include considerable information on the Home Guard:

Nancy Taylor The Home Front 1986, Vol.1 pp450-480
Peter Cooke Defending New Zealand 2000, Vol.2 pp571-622

Maori Battalion (28th NZ Battalion)

Archives New Zealand holds many records for the Maori Battalion.

- Personnel Files [ABFK W3629]
  Access restrictions apply.
- Unit Diaries [WAII 1 DA68/1-73]
- Embarkation Rolls March 1940 to June 1948 [AD 24/9-24; MICRO 5076]
- Moana-nui-a-Kiwa Ngarimu, VC
  - personnel file [AD 36/29]
  - posthumous award of his Victoria Cross [IA 1 171/70/4-6]

Other material on the Maori (28th) Battalion is to be found in the archives of the Maori Affairs, External Affairs and Army Departments.

Maps

Archives New Zealand holds a variety of maps from the Second World War.

- Major series of maps [WAII 5]
- Plans from Dr Douglas Kennedy
  - similar to some in [WAII 5] but not identical
  - Italy & North Africa (74 maps) [PACB 7375]
  - El Alamein & Cassino [PACB 7376]
- Allied garrison at Tobruk [AAAB W4471]

Maps can also be located, through the heading ‘Maps’ or a place name, in the Subject Index in the Reading Room Wellington (see page 10). Other maps are to be found in Unit Diaries (see page 10) and in published War Histories.
Medical Records 1940-1945
Most medical records of the 2nd NZ Expeditionary Force (2 NZEF), including official reports, Operational Unit records, Medical Narratives and Medical Unit Diaries, have been collected into one archive series. [WAII 4]

Nominal Embarkation and Disembarkation Rolls 2nd New Zealand Expeditionary Force (2 NZEF) 1940-1945
Records of the embarkation and disembarkation of New Zealand troops in New Zealand during the Second World War.
Embarkation rolls usually include: name, number, rank, unit, conjugal status, place of enlistment, occupation, last New Zealand address, name & address of next-of-kin. Some records are organised by Brigade or similar level unit. The main holdings of 2 NZEF embarkation rolls are:

- to March 1940 [AD 24/9]
- to June 1940 [AD 24/10; MICRO 5076]
- July 1940 to March 1941 [AD 24/11]

- January to March 1944 [AD 24/21]
- April to December 1944 [AD 24/22]
- January to December 1945 [AD 24/23]
- January 1946 to June 1948 [AD 24/24]

Many embarkation rolls are to be found elsewhere in Army or War Department records. [AD 1/349]
Some duplicates: [WAII DA 510 & DA 511]
Soldiers Returning from Overseas 1940-1941 – Nominal Rolls [SS 7 11/6/14]
Access to this file is restricted.

A card index in the Reading Room Wellington, which gives a detailed chronology of embarkation and disembarkation, may be helpful.

Nursing - New Zealand Army Nursing Service
Archives New Zealand holds a number of papers relating to the New Zealand Army Nursing Service for the period 1939-1948, including the Second World War and the J-Force in Japan 1946-1948. The files are mainly unit histories and administrative files, but some include details of individual nurses. [AD 64/33-41]

Photographs
Archives New Zealand Wellington holds two major series of Second World War (Pacific) photographs and a number of smaller series.
- Official photographs taken by RNZAF photographers in the Pacific and at home [(ADQA 17263) AIR 118, especially 64/1-41]
- Semi-official and private photographs, mostly army (2 NZEF) but also some navy (RNZN) – Pacific only [(ADQZ 18905) WAIL 7]

Other groups of photographic images from the Second World War include:
- Māori in the armed forces (includes Māori Battalion, Vietnam & Singapore) [AAMK W3495 Box 23 f-Q]
- Women at War [AAUR W3263 Box 1]
- Aerial photographs of New Zealand defence installations [W3810]

Rehabilitation of Soldiers after the Second World War

Archives New Zealand holds little detail on the rehabilitation of soldiers back into civilian life after the Second World War.

Former Servicemen’s Rehabilitation files (24117 in total) are held, 1936-1985 overall, and can be searched for by name on ARCHWAY, but they usually include very limited information and are restricted access. [AADK 20203 W3729/1-1562] R100/40

A number of servicemen suffering from shell-shock, etc, spent time in the Queen Mary Hospital, Hanmer. See Research Guide: Mental Health. Many of the records are restricted access.

Minutes and Correspondence of the Rehabilitation Board [AATK] and the Rehabilitation Division [AATL] might provide some information on government efforts to rehabilitate soldiers.

Other government agencies were also involved in soldier rehabilitation.

Subject Index

The War History Branch card catalogue, located in the Wellington Reading Room, provides an excellent means of accessing Second World War and J-Force (Japan) records by subject.

Unit Diaries

The unit diaries of the 2nd New Zealand Expeditionary Force (2 NZEF) were collected systematically to provide material for later histories of New Zealand’s efforts in the Second World War.

Unit Diaries from the war are held at Archives New Zealand Wellington under Unit name. A list in the Finding Aids [WAII] gives the unit diaries and dates. Each individual diary part/file usually covers a calendar month. A number of diaries are available on microfilm.

- Middle East Unit Diaries [WAII 1 DA 1-397]
- Pacific Unit Diaries [WAII 1 DAZ 1-543]
- Medical and Hospital Unit Diaries (also other material) [WAII 4]

War Graves

Two card indexes relating to the graves of Second World War servicemen are held in Wellington:

- War Graves Index of Servicemen who died overseas. This is arranged by place of burial but there is also an index to these records. [AAAC 17726 W1834/2-17]
- Non-War Graves Card Index of deceased ex-servicemen, organized alphabetically. [AAAC W3065/1-176]

Information about the war graves of most soldiers who died on active duty during the Second World War can be obtained from other institutions:

- Commonwealth Graves Commission website: www.cwgc.org
- Office of Veterans Affairs New Zealand, 11th floor, Sovereign Assurance House, 142 Lambton Quay, Wellington, Freephone 0800 4 VETERAN / 0800 483 8372
- War Graves (files, photographs, films) [IA 76]
- War Graves, monuments, etc [IA 1/7]
- War Pensions and War Veterans Application, Bursaries and Funeral Grants – Register 1951-1963 (Department of Social Welfare, Head Office) [AADK 7916 W4883/2]
Some records are held of New Zealand forces after the Second World War:

- occupation of Japan 1945-1948
- conflict in Korea 1950-1957
- conflict in Malaya 1955-1967

Japan

At the end of the Second World War New Zealand sent a force – the J-Force – to take part in the occupation of Japan 1945-1948. Records of this force can be found in the War and Army Department archives. The records include:

- War diaries (all units), routine orders and office papers [WA-J]
- Alphabetical roll of those who embarked from Italy in the advance party and main body of the J-Force to Japan [WAII DA 510/14]
- Nominal Rolls J-Force (2 volumes) [AD 1 349/1/38]

Some Second World War records also include records of the J-Force.

Korea

New Zealand participated in the United Nations force in Korea, from 1950 to the armistice in 1953, and then until Commonwealth forces withdrew in 1958. Records of this force can be found in the War and Army Department archives. The records include:

- War diaries, routine orders & office papers [WA-K]
- Nominal Embarkation Rolls [AD 1 349/4]
- Treatment of Prisoners of War [AD 1 339/6/4]
- K Force Discipline 1950-1960 [AD 310/14]

Malaya

The Malayan ‘Emergency’ or ‘Incident’ involved battalions from a New Zealand Army Regiment and a Special Air Service Squadron. Archives New Zealand in Wellington holds:

- Air Service Squadron records 1955-1957 [WA-M 1/3]
- Supplementary material, including Photographs [WA-M 2 1/6]
- Death Cards list names and details of the New Zealand servicemen who died overseas 1954-73, including in Vietnam (see below). [ABFK 6739]

Vietnam

Most records of New Zealand's involvement in the war in Vietnam are still held by the New Zealand Defence Force. Archives New Zealand in Wellington holds:

- List of Battle Casualties 1965-1971 [ABFK 6744]
- Death Cards list names and details of the New Zealand servicemen who died overseas 1954-73 [ABFK 6739]
- Personnel: Honours & Awards: Vietnam Campaign Medal [ABFK 7494/27 31/5/13 Parts 1-3]
- Royal NZ Air Force activities in South East Asia 1964-1969 [ABFK 7281/44 26/1/20 Part 1]

Access to these records is restricted.

  Index to Albums 1-47 [AIR 118/75e drawers 1-8]
- Other photographs, in envelopes, boxes, albums [AIR 118/65-75]

Air Force / Navy Record
‘Index B’ [N 15/13]
A record of New Zealanders who served 1939-1945 in the British Fleet Air Arm, in associated British Air Force Squadrons and bases, and on British naval vessels. There is considerable detail about a few people, but for most just brief notes about their service.

Royal New Zealand Navy
Access restrictions apply to some Naval records. Army Department files on troop movements in the First World War include some information about troopships and troop movements [AD 1/25]

Naval archives include:

- Subject files
  Originally unclassified material 1925-1949 [N 1]
  Originally secret material 1925-1949 [N 2]
- Ships’ Logs (1913-1969 – dates vary for each ship)
  A Ship’s Log was the formal record of a ship’s activities. Other items are also held, including Deck Logs, which are less formal records. Each ship had its own logs, often in monthly sections. [N 40-124]
- Additional Ships’ Logs, including diaries and photographs (1948-1995) [ABFK 7592 & W3492]

Other records of the Navy Department include:

- Signal Logs 1914-1934 [N 3]
- Official Documents [N 10]
- Intelligence Summaries 1940-1945 [N 11]
- Records: War History Branch of the Department of Internal Affairs [N 15]
- Medals and Decorations – correspondence relating to (3 files) 1916-1955 [N 1 13/4/5 Box 323]

There are extensive Naval Staff: Multiple Number Subject Files [ABFK 7395] which include:

- Compassionate Grants Civilian 1944-1986 [ABFK 7395 61/14/5]
- Wills 1958-1988 [ABFK 7395 61/14/6]
- Operations & Movements of HMNZ Ships, overall range 1958-1986 [ABFK 7395 62/1/10-121]

Other Navy Staff files relate more directly to personnel:

- Personnel (overall range 1932-1986, most from 1950s) [ABFK 7395 66/1-22] These include:
  ◦ Advancement of Ratings [ABFK 7395 66/1]
  ◦ Appointment of Officers [ABFK 7395 66/2]
  ◦ Discharges (including Funerals & Graves) [ABFK 7395 66/5]
  ◦ Discipline [ABFK 7395 66/6]
  ◦ Examinations [ABFK 7395 66/7]
  ◦ Manning [ABFK 7395 66/10/...]
  ◦ Medals, Decorations & Badges [ABFK 7395 66/11]
